

Language: Writing Process

Purpose, Audience, Style, and Tone

Writing Forms: Genres

Students	Learning Continuum Statements:
----------	--------------------------------

Students:
------------------	--

RIT 171-180:

- Determines the audience for a piece of writing
- Determines the purpose of a piece of writing
- Determines what information is appropriate for a given audience and purpose

Students:
------------------	--

RIT 181-190:

- Determines the audience for a piece of writing
- Determines the purpose of a piece of writing
- Determines what information is appropriate for a given audience and purpose

Students:
------------------	--

RIT 191-200:

- Determines the audience for a piece of writing
- Determines the purpose of a piece of writing
- Determines what information is appropriate for a given audience and purpose

Students:
------------------	--

RIT 201-210:

- Determines the audience for a piece of writing
- Determines the purpose of a piece of writing
- Determines what information is appropriate for a given audience and purpose
- Identifies persuasive writing as most effective for a given purpose

Students:
------------------	--

RIT 211-220:

- Determines the audience for a piece of writing
- Determines the purpose of a piece of writing
- Determines what information is appropriate for a given audience and purpose
- Identifies persuasive writing as most effective for a given purpose

Students:
------------------	--

RIT 221-230:

- Determines the purpose of a piece of writing
- Determines what information is appropriate for a given audience and purpose
- Identifies persuasive writing as most effective for a given purpose

Students:
------------------	--

RIT 231-240:

- Determines what information is appropriate for a given audience and purpose